The Institute of National Memory (INM) in Poland has been working with various partner institutions abroad for many years, especially on joint research and publication projects. To date, the INM’s most fruitful co-operation has been with its Ukrainian partners. Since 1996, Polish and Ukrainian scholars have published eight volumes of a documentary series in both Polish and Ukrainian, as well as two volumes in English. Four more volumes of documents from the Polish and Ukrainian archives are planned for publication. To learn more about the project itself and about the volume Poland and Ukraine in the 1930s and 1940s, please attend this book launch.
